ChemLinked offers six types of memberships: Free, Free Trial, Basic, Standard, Corporate and Special. The latter four ones are also called premium membership.

Free membership allows you to have limited access only to the unlocked regulatory news, articles, free webinars and E-publication.

Free Trial membership allows you to enjoy some of the paid benefits of premium members for free for 14 days.

Basic membership is ideal for those who seek the latest resources available but whose needs or budgets are limited. It gives you access to all our news, foodpedia, regulatory analysis and market insights, and also includes discounts to our advertising service.

Standard membership is individual-based and offers the most available resources (slight differences among each portal), which is more suitable for an individual or one person from a company.

Corporate membership allows users ≤ 20 from one company to enjoy unlimited access to all available resources, which is more suitable for large companies or multinational enterprises who need to use ChemLinked by more than one staff.

Special membership is a customized membership. It is for multi-users more than 20 from one company to enjoy unlimited access to all resources OR for bodies, agencies, organizations, associations, chambers of commerce, or any non-profit centers, which have a group of members of their own and will potentially re-circulate our resources to them. The membership price will be evaluated and determined based on the property and the number of members of the organization.

Because ChemLinked three portals (Food/Cosmetic/Chemical) operate independently, the premium memberships of the three portals are also INDEPENDENT. If you’d like free access to resources in multiple portals, you must purchase the premium membership package of each portal separately.
